

Conflict Homework

Thesis- is a claim that you are making that must be proved.

First thing you must do is find a quote that you believe can be proved. What does that mean?

Well, think about what we did in class; we looked at a conflict quote, one of the quotes that was stated when there was a man vs. man, man vs. nature, or man vs. self-conflict. Once we identified where a quote was located, we wrote it down and tried to see if there was something to be proved. We discussed the quote regarding how animals have no feelings. At that point there was something to investigate. Do they have feelings? Do they not have feelings? Rainford becomes the animal at one point; he becomes the one that is hunted. Therefore, we had a thesis and we had something to prove. For homework, you must find a different quote and see if there is something else that must be proved. For homework, find a quote from “The Most Dangerous Game” that you believe has something to prove. I am going to ask you in class what it must prove, so be prepared with an answer. You will eventually be writing an essay, not now, but eventually, so give me a quote that you can write about. Good luck!

Hint!!!! You have already highlighted all the areas where there is conflict, your quotes should be right there. Where there is conflict, there is something to prove.
